THE INTRODUCTION

ROBERT M. BELL
CHIEF JUDGE
COURT OF APPEALS OF MARYLAND
634 COURTHOUSE EAST
111 N. CALVERT STREET
BALTIMORE, MARYLAND 21202
(410) 333-6396

December 1, 2003

During the past year, the Maryland Judiciary continued to build upon a foundation strengthened by the resolve of its most precious resources – the people who work tirelessly to ensure that the citizens of Maryland receive the best the Judicial Branch has to offer. That resolve is reflected in the work of the component parts of the Judicial Branch, the judges, clerks, court administrators, court-related agencies, and administration. The results of their efforts are displayed on the following pages. The Annual Report of the Maryland Judiciary – Statistical Abstract and Court-Related Units provides a descriptive, statistical, and graphical presentation of the work product of the Judiciary over the last fiscal year.

The courts handled millions of cases during the year, involving issues as varied as minor traffic citations, complex civil litigation, sensitive family matters and precedent-setting decisions rendered by the Maryland Court of Appeals. The court-related agencies and judicial administration were kept busy as new Rules of Procedure were promulgated, additional drug courts were established, services to families were expanded, and new policies, aimed at achieving greater efficiency and expedition were enacted. In short, the past year has proven to be extremely productive for the Maryland Judiciary.

It is with pleasure and gratitude that I present the Annual Report of the Maryland Judiciary – Statistical Abstract and Court-Related Units for Fiscal Year 2003.

THE COURT OF APPEALS

The Court of Appeals, the highest tribunal in the State of Maryland, was created by the Constitution of 1776. The Court sat in various locations throughout the State in the early years of its existence, but has sat only in Annapolis since 1851. The Court is composed of seven judges, including the chief judge, with one judge from each of the seven appellate judicial circuits. There are three single jurisdiction circuits included among the seven — Montgomery and Prince George's Counties and Baltimore City. Members of the Court are initially appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. Subsequently, they run for office on their records, unopposed. If a judge's retention in office is rejected by the voters or there is a tie vote, that office becomes vacant and must be filled by a new appointment. Otherwise, the incumbent judge remains in office for a ten-year term. The Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals is designated by the Governor and is the constitutional administrative head of the Maryland Judiciary. As a result of legislation effective January 1, 1975, the Court of Appeals hears cases almost exclusively by way of certiorari, a discretionary review process. Petitions for certiorari are granted by the Court for those cases it deems to be "desirable and in the public interest." That process has resulted in the reduction of the Court's formerly excessive workload to a more manageable level, thus allowing the Court to devote more time to the most important and far-reaching issues.

The Court may review cases already decided by the Court of Special Appeals or bring up for review, cases filed in that Court before they are decided.

COURT OF APPEALS
APPEALS ACTUALLY FILED AND TERMINATED WITHIN FISCAL YEAR

Additionally, the Court of Appeals has exclusive jurisdiction over appeals in which a sentence of death is imposed. Cases from the circuit court level also may be reviewed by the Court of Appeals if those courts have acted in an appellate capacity with respect to an appeal from the District Court. The Court is empowered to adopt rules of judicial administration, practice, and procedure which will have the force of law. It also admits persons to the practice of law, reviews recommendations of the State Board of Law Examiners and conducts disciplinary proceedings involving members of the bench and bar. Questions of law certified by federal and other state appellate courts also may be decided by the Court of Appeals.

In the 2002 Term, the Court of Appeals docketed a total of 1,021 filings. Included in these filings were 145 regular docket appeals, 715 petitions for certiorari, 42 miscellaneous appeals and 119 attorney grievance proceedings. Comparatively, there were 977 total filings recorded during the 2001 Term, representing an increase of approximately 4.5 percent over the two-year period. Contributing to the increase was a 63 percent increase in attorney grievance proceedings, and an 8.2 percent increase in regular docket appeals. However, these increases were mitigated by a 20.3 percent decrease in miscellaneous appeals. Petitions for certiorari, remaining relatively constant over the past three years, decreased by one petition over the last two years. During Fiscal Year 2003, there were 1,441 bar admissions recorded by the Court of Appeals.

Table CA-2 details the appellate judicial circuits in which appeals originated. As previously mentioned, 145 regular docket appeals were recorded in the 2002 Term. Of the seven appellate circuits, the Sixth Appellate Circuit (Baltimore City) reported the greatest number of appeals with 32 cases, or 22 percent of the total number of appeals recorded. The Seventh Appellate Circuit (Montgomery County) followed, reporting 19.3 percent of appeals in the current term. The First Appellate Circuit, which comprises the counties situated on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, reported the smallest percentage of filings, with 7.6 percent, or 11 appeals.

As illustrated in Table CA-3, over the last five years, the Court of Appeals has experienced a net decrease of approximately 8.8 percent in regular docket appeals. During the 1998 Term, 159 regular docket appeals were filed, compared to the 2002 Term total of 145 appeals. Since 1998, civil and criminal appeals both fluctuated. Over the five-year period, civil appeals decreased 2 percent (from 102 during the 1998 Term, to 100 in the 2002 Term), while a net increase of one case was realized in criminal appeals. Petitions for certiorari increased by three cases, from 712 petitions in the 1998 Term, to the current total of 715 petitions. During the 2002 Term, 51.3 percent, or 367 petitions involved civil matters, while 348, or approximately 49 percent of the total number of petitions were criminal in nature.

Dispositions

In Fiscal Year 2003, there were 965 dispositions recorded by the Court of Appeals, compared to the Fiscal Year 1999 total of 937, representing an increase of approximately three percent over the five-year period. Contributing most significantly to the increase was a nearly 45 percent rise in the number of attorney grievance dispositions, from 56 in Fiscal Year 1999, to the current total of 81. A slight increase was noted in every other category of dispositions, with the exception of regular docket dispositions, which decreased approximately 7.6 percent over the five-year period, from 144 in Fiscal Year 1999, to the current total of 133.

Table CA-6 illustrates a five-year comparison of disposed petitions for certiorari. In Fiscal Year 1999, there were 702 disposed petitions. Of those petitions, 389 were civil, and 313 were criminal. During the same period, 15.7 percent of the civil petitions were granted, while 11.8 percent of criminal petitions were granted. Comparatively, 17.3 percent of civil petitions filed during Fiscal Year 2003 were granted, while 10.5 percent of criminal petitions were granted. The average amount of time expended from certiorari to argument decreased slightly over the last five years, from 3.9 months in Fiscal Year 1999, to 3.6 months in Fiscal Year 2003. In contrast, the average amount of time from argument to decision or the granting of certiorari to decision, during the same period, both increased by less than one month.

As shown in Table CA-7, in disposing its regular docket, the Court of Appeals affirmed 44 of the lower courts' decisions, while reversing 62 decisions. Sixteen decisions were vacated and remanded, three were affirmed in part and reversed in part, and one was affirmed in part and vacated in part. Seven cases were dismissed, including two that were dismissed without an opinion, and two that were dismissed prior to argument or submission. The Court considered and disposed 87 civil matters and 46 criminal matters.

Pending

Table CA-5 is a tabular depiction of cases that were pending at the close of Fiscal Year 2003. Of the 86 pending cases, 65 cases (76 percent), were civil cases, while 21 (24 percent) were criminal cases. Fifty-nine percent of the pending cases originated in the 2002 Term, while nearly 35 percent originated in the 2003 Term. The Fiscal Year 2003 pending caseload represents a decrease of approximately 32 percent from the Fiscal Year 1999 pending caseload of 126 cases. The decreasing pending caseload, coupled with the relatively consistent case disposition time over the last five years, is evidence of the Court's commitment to the timely and expeditious, but equitable, dispensation of justice.

THE COURT OF SPECIAL APPEALS

Maryland's intermediate appellate court, the Court of Special Appeals, was created in 1966 to address a substantial backlog in the Court of Appeals that had developed as a result of a rapidly increasing caseload.

The Court of Special Appeals sits in Annapolis and is composed of thirteen members, including a chief judge. One member of the Court is elected from each of the seven appellate judicial circuits. The remaining six members are elected from the State at large. Members of the Court of Special Appeals are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. The judges run on their records without opposition for ten-year terms. If a judge's retention in office is rejected by the voters or there is a tie vote, that office becomes vacant and must be filled by a new appointment. Otherwise, the incumbent judge remains in office for a ten-year term. The Governor designates the Chief Judge of the Court of Special Appeals.

The Court has exclusive initial appellate jurisdiction over any reviewable judgment, decree, order or other action of a circuit court and generally hears cases appealed directly from the circuit courts unless otherwise provided by law. The judges of the Court are empowered to sit in panels of three. A hearing or rehearing before the Court en banc may be ordered in any case by a majority of the incumbent judges. The Court also considers applications for leave to appeal in such areas as post conviction, habeas corpus matters involving denial of or excessive bail, inmate grievances, appeals from criminal guilty pleas and violations of probation.

The Court has implemented statutorily prescribed procedures in an effort to more effectively manage its civil and criminal caseloads. Maryland Rule 8-204 and Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article Section 12-302, which removes the right of direct appeal in those criminal cases in which a guilty plea has been entered, were adopted to manage criminal caseloads more effectively. An application for leave to appeal is required in those instances in which a guilty plea has been entered in criminal cases. The Court has discretionary authority to either assign the case to the regular docket or to deny the appeal. With respect to expediting its civil appeal process, the Court of Special Appeals has used prehearing conferences. During the conferences, panels of judges review pending civil cases to identify cases suitable for resolution by the parties. The appeals are either scheduled for prehearing conferences or proceed through the regular appellate process. If there is no resolution during the conferences, the cases are placed on subsequent dockets and counted as filings. An information report, which summarizes the actions of the circuit court, is filed whenever an appeal is noted.

Since the 1998 Term, the Court of Special Appeals has experienced varied fluctuations in the number of appeals docketed. As shown in Table CSA-1, during the 1998 Term, there were 1,962 appeals filed, compared to the 2002 Term total of 1,978, representing an increase of less than one percent over the five-year period. More than 60 percent of the 2002 Term case-load or 1,193 cases, comprised civil matters, while 785 cases, or nearly 40 percent, comprised criminal matters. Over the five-year period, appeals involving civil matters decreased more than two percent, while criminal matters increased more than five percent.

Table CSA-2 illustrates the origin of appeals by appellate judicial circuit and jurisdiction for the 2002 Term. Among the five largest jurisdictions, Baltimore City represented the highest percentage of appeals, with 442 appeals, or 22.3 percent of the total. This appellate jurisdiction reported an increase of approximately 7.3 percent since the 1999 Term. Prince George's County followed, with 287 appeals or 14.5 percent of the total. That figure compares with the 1999 Term total of 326 appeals, a decrease of approximately 12 percent. There were 267 appeals filed from Montgomery County during the 2002 Term, representing approximately 13.5 percent of the total. Over the five-year period, there was an increase of approximately 14.1 percent in appeals originating from the aforementioned jurisdiction. Appeals from Baltimore County comprised approximately 14 percent of the total in the 2002 Term. Over the last five years, a decrease of approximately 10.5 percent was noted in appeals from Baltimore County. Anne Arundel County reported 139 appeals in the current Term, representing 10.4 percent of the total. The aforementioned jurisdiction experienced a decrease of approximately 4.1 percent in appeals over the five-year period.

Appeals that were filed and terminated during Fiscal Year 2003 are shown in Table CSA-3. During Fiscal Year 2003, 1,960 appeals were filed, while 1,901 were disposed. Since Fiscal Year 1999, appeals filed in the Court of Special Appeals increased less than one percent. Dispositions also increased slightly during the five-year period, rising approximately two percent. Overall, opinions issued by the Court decreased approximately 5.6 percent over the five-year period, from 1,383 opinions in Fiscal Year 1999, to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 1,305 opinions.

Over the five-year period, miscellaneous dispositions, which include post conviction, inmate grievance, violations of probation and other miscellaneous cases, increased nearly eight percent, as indicated in Table CSA-6. Largely responsible for the increase was a rise in the number of inmate grievance cases, from eight in Fiscal Year 1999, to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 117 cases. However, this increase was mitigated by an 11.1 percent decrease in post conviction dispositions, coupled with a 59.1 percent decrease in other miscellaneous dispositions.

As previously mentioned, there were 1,901 dispositions reported by the Court of Special Appeals in Fiscal Year 2003. Approximately 48 percent of the decisions of the lower court were affirmed, while 28.3 percent were dismissed prior to argument or decision (Table CSA-7). More than 61 percent (1,172 dispositions) originated in the 2002 Docket. In disposing its caseload, the Court averaged four months from argument to decision during Fiscal Year 2003, an increase of little more than one month over the last five years. Likewise, the average length of time from docketing to argument increased 1.4 months since Fiscal Year 1999, to the current level of approximately six months.

From the 2000 Term to the 2002 Term, the Court of Special Appeals reported an increase of 3.6 percent in the number of information reports received. As illustrated in Table CSA-4, during the 2000

The Court of Special Appeals

Term, 1,179 reports were received, while 1,221 were received during the 2002 Term. In the 2002 Term, nearly 80 percent of the prehearing reports received proceeded without a prehearing conference, while more than 20 percent resulted in the assignment of cases to prehearing conferences. Comparatively, in the 2000 Term, 74.5 percent of the information reports received proceeded without a prehearing conference, while 25.5 percent were assigned to prehearing conferences. Of those information reports that were assigned for prehearing conferences during the 2002 Term, 63.1 percent proceeded without limitation of issues, while more than 28 percent were pending at the end of the aforementioned Term.

At the end of Fiscal Year 2003, there were 1,416 cases pending in the Court of Special Appeals, comprising 699 criminal cases, 682 civil cases, and 35 juvenile cases (Table CSA-8). The pending caseload primarily comprises matters that have been scheduled for argument, as well as cases that have been argued or are awaiting issuance of opinions.

THE CIRCUIT COURTS

The circuit courts are the highest common law and equity courts of record exercising original jurisdiction within the State. Each has full common law and equity powers and jurisdiction in all civil and criminal cases within its county, along with all of the additional powers and jurisdiction conferred by the Constitution and the law, except when jurisdiction has been limited or conferred upon another tribunal by law. The circuit courts handle nearly 300,000 cases per year. In addition to their judicial functions, the circuit courts are responsible for recording the State's land records transactions, as well as issuing a number of business licenses and marriage licenses. The judges and clerks of court often are called upon to perform civil marriage ceremonies.

There is a circuit court in each county of the State and Baltimore City. Its jurisdiction is very broad, but generally, it handles the major civil cases, the more serious criminal matters, and all family matters. The circuit courts also decide appeals from the District Court and certain administrative agencies.

The courts are grouped into eight geographical circuits. Each of the first seven circuits comprises two or more counties, while the Eighth Judicial Circuit only consists of Baltimore City. As of July 1, 2003, there were 146 authorized circuit court judgeships, with at least one judge for each county and 30 in Baltimore City. There are seven single-judge jurisdictions in the State. Unlike the other three court levels in Maryland, there is no chief judge who is administrative head of the circuit courts. There are, however, eight circuit administrative judges appointed by the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals.

CIRCUIT COURT - FILINGS BY FISCAL YEAR

The Circuit Courts

They perform administrative duties in each of their respective circuits and are assisted by county administrative judges.

Each circuit court judge initially is appointed to office by the Governor and must stand for election at the next general election which follows, by at least one year, the vacancy the judge was appointed to fill. The judge may be opposed by one or more members of the bar. The successful candidate is elected to a fifteen-year term of office.

Fiscal Year 2003 Highlights

The installation of ELROI (Electronic Land Record Optical Imagery) in Washington and Frederick Counties was completed during Fiscal Year 2003. A plan has been developed to complete the remaining ELROI installations within the next two years.

The ELROI system images records ten years back. In an effort to fill the void and have all land records imaged, the Maryland Judiciary and the Maryland State Archives entered into a partnership to develop and deploy a comprehensive land records database. The database, Mdlandrec.net, which was piloted in the Circuit Court for Worcester County, will contain images of all land record transactions not included in the ELROI system. This partnership will prove extremely valuable as customers will be able to electronically access all land records, thus eliminating the need to search through countless pages of books that may become damaged and unreadable after many years of use.

The PLATO system was successfully installed in Baltimore City, completing the first phase of the project which now is available in all jurisdictions. The PLATO system is a web-based image reference and retrieval system for survey recording, specifically subdivision and condominium plats.

Due to fiscal constraints, the e-License application was offered in a pilot version statewide. All twenty-four jurisdictions successfully participated in deploying the application during the fiscal year. This afforded each jurisdiction the opportunity to enjoy the basic benefits of the e-License system, including individual control over their respective license data and a more efficient manner of issuing business licenses. Enhancements to the application will begin in the upcoming fiscal year and will continue as funding becomes available.

The circuit courts continued to implement a number of innovative management tools to assist in improving efficiency, productivity, and the overall quality of justice. This effort was, in part, fueled by the adoption of case time standards for most major case types, including criminal, civil, family, and delinquency. The time standards provide time frames by which matters before the court can reasonably be expected to be resolved. During the year, the circuit courts, along with the District Court of Maryland, participated in a second assessment to measure actual performance against the standards. The circuit courts continued to exhibit overall improvement. A third assessment is scheduled to take place before the end of Fiscal Year 2004. A study is underway to develop time standards for child welfare cases.

Statistical Overview

Between Fiscal Years 2001 and 2003, the circuit courts experienced a decrease of approximately 3.2 percent in filing activity, from the Fiscal Year 2001 level of 292,037 filings to 282,673 case filings in Fiscal Year 2003. Contributing to the reported decline in filing activity were decreases reported by three of the five larger jurisdictions. The greatest decrease was reported by Baltimore City. This jurisdiction, with a decrease of 9.4 percent, reported 69,194 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 62,671 filings. Prince George's County followed, decreasing 8.9 percent, from 43,783 filings in Fiscal Year 2001 to 39,866 case filings recorded in Fiscal Year 2003. Finally, Montgomery County reported a three-year decrease of 5.5 percent, from 38,127 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, to 36,038 filings in Fiscal Year 2003. In contrast, both Anne Arundel and Baltimore Counties reported increases of 14.4 percent and nearly 3 percent, respectively. There were 19,630 filings reported by Anne Arundel County in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 22,454 in Fiscal Year 2003. Likewise, Baltimore County's filing activity rose from 29,179 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, to the current level of 30,031 filings.

Between Fiscal Years 2001 and 2003, decreases were reported in three of the four major case types, with the only increase occurring in civil-general filings. The only category of filings that increased over the three-year period was civil-general filings. In Fiscal Year 2001, there were 71,488 civil-general filings reported, representing 24.5 percent of the total, compared to 77,176 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing approximately 27.3 percent of the total. Decreasing most significantly were juvenile filings, from 44,059 in Fiscal Year 2001, to the current total of 34,356, a decrease of 22 percent. Juvenile filings comprised approximately 15.1 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to more than 12 percent in the current year. Civil-family filings decreased approximately 3.7 percent over the three-year period, from 98,462 filings in Fiscal Year 2001 to 94,762 filings in the current year. This category of filings comprised 33.7 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 33.5 percent in the current year. Criminal filings decreased approximately 2.1 percent over the three-year period, from 78,028 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, to 76,379 filings in Fiscal Year 2003. In Fiscal Years 2001 and 2003, criminal filings comprised the greatest percentage of the total, with 26.7 percent and 27 percent, respectively.

As previously mentioned, there were 71,488 civil-general filings reported in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 77,176 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing an increase of 8 percent. Responsible for the reported increase in filings were increases in nearly every category of civil-general cases. The only decreases occurred in District Court Appeals and Other Law cases. Among the five largest jurisdictions, Baltimore City reported the only decrease (3.6 percent), from 18,389 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, to 17,720 in Fiscal Year 2003. Montgomery County reported the greatest increase, with 11,236 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 14,057 in Fiscal Year 2003, an increase of 25.1 percent. Anne Arundel County followed, increasing 17.1 percent, from 6,024 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 7,055 in Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore County, with 8,465 filings in Fiscal Year 2001 and 9,039 filings in Fiscal Year 2003, reported an increase of nearly 7 percent over the three-year period. Prince George's County, with the smallest increase, reported 11,257 civil-general filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 12,017 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing an increase of 6.8 percent.

With respect to distribution of filings, Baltimore City comprised approximately 23 percent of all civil-general filings recorded in Fiscal Year 2003, followed by Montgomery County, which accounted for 18.2 percent of the total. Approximately 15.6 percent of the Fiscal Year 2003 civil-general caseload was recorded by Prince George's County. Baltimore and Anne Arundel Counties reported 11.7 percent and 9.1 percent of the total, respectively.

Civil-family case filings decreased approximately 3.8 percent over the three-year period, from 98,462 in Fiscal Year 2001, to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 94,762 filings. Largely responsible for the decrease in civil-family filings over the three-year period was a nearly 15 decrease in Paternity cases (from 30,049 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 25,583 in Fiscal Year 2003). Among the five largest jurisdictions, Prince George's County accounted for the greatest percentage of filings, comprising 15.5 percent of the total. While decreasing nearly 4 percent over the last three years, Prince George's County also comprised the greatest percentage of civil-family cases in Fiscal Year 2001. Montgomery County followed, comprising nearly 12 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2003 with 11,367 filings. This jurisdiction reported a 17.6 percent decrease in filing activity over the three-year period. There were 11,027 civil-family filings reported by Baltimore City in Fiscal Year 2003, representing approximately 11.6 percent of the total. That figure compares to 12,754 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, a decrease of 13.5 percent over the last three years. Baltimore and Anne Arundel Counties both experienced increases in civil-family filings over the last three years. Baltimore County reported an increase of more than 20 percent in civil-family filings, with 8,656 in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 10,443 in Fiscal Year 2003, comprising approximately 11 percent of the civil-family caseload. Likewise, Anne Arundel County reported an increase of more than 18 percent, from 5,591 civil-family filings in Fiscal Year 2001, to 6,610 in Fiscal Year 2003. This jurisdiction comprised approximately 7 percent of the total number of filings in Fiscal Year 2003.

Criminal filings also decreased over the last three years by more than 2 percent, from 78,028 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 76,379 filings. The decrease can be attributed to decreases in Other Appeals from the District Court, Jury Trial Prayers (Motor), and Post Conviction cases. Increases were noted in the remaining categories of criminal cases over the three-year period. Of the five larger jurisdictions, only Anne Arundel County reported an increase. This county reported an increase of 20.5 percent in criminal filings, from 5,275 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 6,359 in Fiscal Year 2003. Anne Arundel

County comprised 6.8 percent of the total number of criminal filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 8.3 percent in Fiscal Year 2003. Montgomery County reported 7.3 percent of the total criminal caseload in Fiscal Year 2003, compared to nearly 9 percent in Fiscal Year 2001. With the greatest decrease over the three-year period, Montgomery County reported 6,957 criminal filings in Fiscal Year 2001 and 5,540 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing a decrease of 20.4 percent. Prince George's County reported a rather significant decrease as well, with 10,496 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 8,855 in Fiscal Year 2003, a decrease of 15.6 percent. This county comprised 13.5 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 11.6 percent in Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore City, comprising nearly 33 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2003, with 24,936 filings, reported a decrease of more than 7 percent since Fiscal Year 2001 when 26,847 filings were reported. During Fiscal Year 2001, Baltimore City comprised 34.4 percent of the total number of criminal filings. Baltimore County reported a decrease of 3.5 percent, from 6,849 filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 6,606 filings. Additionally, Baltimore County reported 8.8 percent of the total criminal caseload in Fiscal Year 2001 and 8.7 percent in Fiscal Year 2003.

Between Fiscal Years 2001 and 2003, only four jurisdictions reported increases in juvenile filings. Statewide, juvenile filings decreased approximately 22 percent over the three-year period. This decrease can be attributed to a change in the reporting of child welfare cases. All five of the larger jurisdictions reported decreases over the three-year period, with the most significant decrease occurring in Prince George's County. This county reported 6,728 juvenile filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 4,296 in Fiscal Year 2003, a decrease of more than 36 percent, or 2,432 filings. Prince George's County comprised approximately 15.3 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 12.5 percent in Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore City, reporting a decrease of 19.8 percent, or 2,216 filings since Fiscal Year 2001, accounted for more than 25 percent of the total in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 26.2 percent in Fiscal Year 2003. The aforementioned jurisdiction reported 11,204 juvenile filings in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 8,988 in Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore County reported a decrease of 1,266 cases since Fiscal Year 2001, representing a decrease of 24.3 percent. This county accounted for nearly 12 percent of the juvenile caseload in Fiscal Year 2001, with 5,209 filings, compared to approximately 11.5 percent in Fiscal Year 2003, with 3,943 filings. Montgomery County reported a decrease of 17.3 percent over the three-year period, with 6,136 filings reported in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 5,074 in Fiscal Year 2003, a decrease of 1,087 filings. Likewise, Anne Arundel County reported a decrease of 310 filings, or 11.3 percent, since Fiscal Year 2001. This county comprised 6.2 percent of the total, or 2,740 filings, in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 7.1 percent, or 2,430 filings in Fiscal Year 2003.

Terminations

Over the past three years, total terminations in the circuit courts have decreased approximately 7.1 percent, from 275,228 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 255,734 in Fiscal Year 2003. All five of the larger jurisdictions reported decreases in terminations over the three-year period. Prince George's County reported the greatest decrease, with 47,189 terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 37,541 in Fiscal Year 2003, a decrease of 20.4 percent. During Fiscal Year 2003, Baltimore City reported the greatest number of terminations, with 55,342, representing nearly 22 percent of the total. Additionally, Baltimore City reported a decrease of 9.6 percent in total terminations. Overall, civil-general terminations decreased less than 1 percent, from 71,975 dispositions in Fiscal Year 2001, to 71,669 in Fiscal Year 2003. Three of the five larger jurisdictions reported increases in the number of terminations, with the largest increase reported by Montgomery County, (25.5 percent). This county reported 11,299 terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 14,178 in Fiscal Year 2003. Anne Arundel County recorded 5,687 civil-general terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 6,805 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing an increase of approximately 19.7 percent. Baltimore County reported an increase of 1.7 percent, with 8,257 terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 8,398 in Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore City reported the most significant decrease in civil-general terminations over the three-year period, with 17,584 in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 14,602 in Fiscal Year 2003, a decrease of 17 percent. Prince George's County reported a 10.3 percent reduction in civil-general terminations, from 13,597 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 12,198 in Fiscal Year 2003.

Civil-family terminations decreased approximately 8.6 percent over the three-year period, from 94,165 in Fiscal Year 2001, to 86,110 in Fiscal Year 2003. Among the five largest jurisdictions, the greatest increase (31.1 percent) was reported by Baltimore County. This county reported 7,452 civil-family terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, compared to 9,773 in Fiscal Year 2003.

In a similar manner as civil-family terminations, criminal terminations decreased approximately 2.7 percent between Fiscal Years 2001 and 2003. Of the five larger jurisdictions, only Anne Arundel County reported an increase (17.6 percent), from 4,896 criminal terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, to 5,759 in Fiscal Year 2003. Prince George's County reported the most significant decrease (20 percent), with 10,097 criminal terminations in Fiscal Year 2001, to 8,073 in Fiscal Year 2003.

On average, the number of days from filing to the disposition of civil cases was approximately 208 days in Fiscal Year 2003, an increase of one day over the Fiscal Year 2001 level. The average number of days from filing to the disposition of criminal cases was approximately 116 days. This average remained constant over the three-year period. There was an average of 74 days expended from filing to disposition of juvenile cases in Fiscal Year 2003. That figure compares to an average of 78 days in Fiscal Year

Trials/Hearings

During Fiscal Year 2003, the circuit courts conducted 339,809 judicial proceedings. That figure compares with 330,456 in the previous fiscal year, representing an increase of 2.8 percent. During Fiscal Year 2003, there were 10,710 total trials conducted, compared to 10,525 in the previous fiscal year, an increase of 1.8 percent. Since Fiscal Year 2002, court trials increased more than 6 percent, from 7,776 in Fiscal Year 2002 to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 8,250. Jury trials decreased approximately 10.5 percent, from 2,749 in Fiscal Year 2002, to 2,460 jury trials in Fiscal Year 2003. Civil trials, including court and jury trials, increased approximately 5.2 percent, from 7,511 in Fiscal Year 2002, to 7,902 in Fiscal Year 2003. In contrast, criminal trials decreased nearly 7 percent, from 3,014 in Fiscal Year 2002, to the Fiscal Year 2003 total of 2,808. Between Fiscal Years 2002 and 2003, hearings (including civil, criminal, and juvenile) increased nearly 3 percent, with 329,099 in Fiscal Year 2003, compared to the previous year's total of 319,931 hearings. Increasing most significantly over the two-year period were juvenile hearings, which rose nearly 7 percent, from 123,248 in Fiscal Year 2002, to 131,761 hearings in Fiscal Year 2003. Criminal hearings also increased, from 98,569 in Fiscal Year 2002, to 100,384 in Fiscal Year 2003, representing an increase of nearly 2 percent. Civil hearings decreased approximately 1.2 percent, from 96,954 in Fiscal Year 2003, to the previous year's total of 98,114.

Increasing 14.6 percent between Fiscal Year 1999 and Fiscal Year 2003 were jury trial requests. In Fiscal Year 1999, there were 28,244 requests for jury trials, compared to 32,358 in Fiscal Year 2003. Of the five larger jurisdictions, Baltimore City reported the most significant increase over the five-year period, with 7,511 jury trial prayers in Fiscal Year 1999, compared to 10,296 in Fiscal Year 2003, an increase of 2,785 jury trial prayers. Prince George's County reported the most significant decrease in jury trial prayers over the five-year period with 5,430 in Fiscal Year 1999, compared to 4,643 in Fiscal Year 2003.

At the close of Fiscal Year 2003, there were 220,703 cases pending in the circuit courts. The greatest percentage of pending cases involved civil-family matters, totaling 92,920 cases and representing approximately 42.1 percent of the pending caseload. There were 67,206 criminal cases pending at the end of Fiscal Year 2003, representing approximately 30.5 percent of the total number of pending cases. Civil-general and juvenile cases each comprised nearly 14 percent of the total.

NOTE: A small number of lengthy cases can increase an average, particularly in a jurisdiction with a small caseload. For that reason, civil cases over 721 days old, criminal cases over 360 days old, and juvenile cases over 271 days old have been excluded in the above calculations. Approximately 90 to 95 percent of the cases are disposed of within those time periods.

THE DISTRICT COURT

The District Court of Maryland is a statewide court with 34 locations in 12 districts. Its 1,300 employees, including 106 judges handle more than two million cases per year.

The District Court presides over a wide variety of cases, including landlord-tenant disputes, replevin claims which seek the return of goods or property, motor vehicle cases, civil lawsuits, domestic violence actions, criminal misdemeanors, certain felonies, and bail and preliminary hearings. Every crime charged in Maryland begins with a review by a District Court commissioner. Commissioners are available to the public twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week.

Because of its broad jurisdiction, tens of thousands of citizens come in contact with the District Court of Maryland every day. Many individuals choose to represent themselves. To assist the pro se litigant, the District Court places considerable emphasis on providing communication with its public, both in and out of the courtroom.

The District Court does not conduct jury trials; a person entitled to and electing a jury trial has the case heard in Circuit Court.

Organization of District Court

The Chief Judge is the administrative head of the Court and appoints administrative judges for each of the twelve districts. The chief judge also appoints a chief clerk, administrative clerks for each district, and all commissioners.

Located in Annapolis, District Court Headquarters provides centralized services to assure court locations statewide apply policies and procedures consistently and function at maximum efficiency. Headquarters has five divisions:

- *Administrative Services, responsible for maintaining effective communication with external customers;

- *Engineering and Central Services, responsible for court facilities;

- *Finance, responsible for budget, accounting and processing payable traffic citations;

- *Operations, responsible for technical support; and

- *Coordinator of Commissioner Activity Office, responsible for administering 250 commissioners in multiple locations throughout the State.

Fiscal Year 2003 Highlights

E-Filing

In the coming year, the District Court will implement a pilot program involving the electronic filing of pleadings and papers in landlord-tenant actions in Prince George's County. The pilot project will allow the Court to compare, in very concrete terms, the benefits and challenges of converting a manual system to an electronic one. Given the high volume (over half a million cases statewide a year) and mandated quick turnarounds (trial must be held within five days), the Court is hopeful that such a system will prove beneficial.

District Court Intranet

The District Court Intranet went on-line in July 2003. District CourtNet provides judges and court staff with instant access to court manuals, forms, judicial opinions, event meetings and schedules, procedures, and a host of other valuable information. Although CourtNet has been operational for less than a year, it has proven to be a beneficial and cost-effective tool, designed to improve the efficiencies of the Court in areas such as communication, printing, form distribution, and warehousing.

Improved Small Claims Process

The amount of a civil action subject to relaxed rules of evidence as a small claim was changed from $2,500 to $5,000 by a new law, effective October 1. Coinciding with the change in the law, the District Court streamlined the filing process by posting forms on-line and improving the notification process.

Digital Recordings Savings Realized

The District Court is a court of record, meaning that all proceedings are recorded. In the early part of 2001, the District Court began replacing its high maintenance, low quality and very frustrating cassette recording system with a digital one.

All courts were fully operational this past year with a high quality digital recording system, where all proceedings are recorded on a CD-ROM. The system saved the Court approximately $500,000 last year.

National Recognition

The District Court received the John Neufeld Court Achievement Award from the Mid-Atlantic Association of Court Managers (MAACM). The award recognized the District Court's "Excellence in Public Service Initiative, a statewide program designed to improve citizens' access to and understanding about the District Court through improved public information materials and enhanced customer service skills on the part of its employees.

Commissioners Issue Peace and Protective Orders

District Court commissioners were granted civil authority by legislation that became effective December 18, 2002, to accept petitions for emergency interim orders and provide emergency relief when the Court is closed on evenings, weekends and holidays. The orders may grant immediate relief in the form of temporary child custody and vacate orders, where the respondent is ordered to leave the residence until the case can be heard by a judge. From December 18, 2002, to June 30, 2003, commissioners accepted 5,573 petitions and granted 3,408 Interim Protective Orders and 1,534 Interim Peace Orders. The volume of petitions continues to grow each month. This work is in addition to the Commissioners' criminal work responsibilities, which include issuing Statement of Charges, conducting hearings to determine pre-trial release, and accepting bonds.

Statistical Overview

In Fiscal Year 2003, the District Court experienced an overall increase in case filings of 4.6% over the previous fiscal year. With a total of 2,179,114 cases filed in Fiscal Year 2002 and 2,279,506 in Fiscal Year 2003, the rate of cases filed per 1,000 population rose from 399 to 413 during the two-year period. Though expected, the increase was slightly higher than the District Court's projection at the end of Fiscal Year 2002. While case filing trends generally follow the long-recognized, positive correlation between population and case filings, there are a number of mitigating factors which influence the Court's caseload. Those include enforcement programs, socioeconomic conditions, new legislation, and even the weather. Where it appears any of those factors were instrumental, they are noted below in the discussion of individual case types.

One caveat to the following discussion of trends in the various case types is that both filing and termination figures were reported for the three major case types beginning in Fiscal Year 2002. Starting last year, those case types included figures for sub case types not previously reported (e.g., motor vehicle cases now include requests for trials on parking and red light citations, Mass Transit Administration cases, etc.). Where long-term comparisons are discussed below, figures for previous years were calculated on the same basis, and those figures are not necessarily the ones published in the accompanying tables.

Criminal Cases

The District Court observed a slight drop (1.2 percent) in criminal case filings between Fiscal Year 2002 and Fiscal Year 2003. The actual change in filings was a decrease of 2,342. It appears that the slight decrease might be attributable to the inclement weather during the winter months. In Fiscal Year 2003, the average number of cases filed monthly was 15,696. In February 2003, the number of criminal cases filed was 11,737. During the subsequent months of March through June 2003, criminal case filings exceeded by almost 4,000 the number filed during those same months in 2002.

The long-term trends provide interesting figures as well. Over the past 10 years, the number of criminal cases filed and terminated has steadily risen, with increases of 11.4 percent and 12.6 percent, respectively. The increases are similar to that found in the statewide population, which experienced a ten-year rise of 9.9 percent. However, a five-year comparison shows a seemingly contradictory trend: between Fiscal Year 1999 and Fiscal Year 2003, there was a 10.1 percent decline in cases filed and a 13.2 percent decline in cases terminated. The contrasting five-year and ten-year trends are explained by the fact that five years ago, in Fiscal Year 1999, the State recorded the highest number of criminal case filings in District Court history, while subsequent years have seen a return to a more predictable level.

The five largest jurisdictions have traditionally accounted for the major percentage of criminal case filings. That was the case during Fiscal Year 2003 as well, when those jurisdictions recorded approximately 72.2 percent of the criminal cases reported statewide. Those same jurisdictions (Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Montgomery, and Prince George's Counties and Baltimore City) comprise nearly 67 percent of the State's population. Baltimore City continued to report the greatest number of criminal filings, accounting for approximately 38.7 percent. That figure represents 121 criminal cases filed per 1,000 population. Comparatively, the ratio of filings to population ranged from a low of 14 filings per 1,000 population in Montgomery County, to a high of 27 filings per 1,000 population in Anne Arundel County. Statewide, in Fiscal Year 2003, there were 36 criminal filings per 1,000 population.

Based on the long-term trend discussed above, as well as the last quarter of Fiscal Year 2003, the District Court anticipates a slight to moderate rise in criminal case filings during Fiscal Year 2004.

Motor Vehicle Cases

There was a 4.1 percent rise in the number of motor vehicle cases filed over the last two years. Comparatively, motor vehicle filings have risen nearly 44 percent over the last ten years. That rather significant increase can, in part, be attributed to unusually low number of citations recorded during Fiscal Years 1993 and 1994. A more recent five-year trend analysis indicated a slight decrease of 2.5 percent in motor vehicle case filings.

The five largest jurisdictions accounted for nearly 61 percent of the motor vehicle cases filed during Fiscal Year 2003. Montgomery County recorded the greatest percentage of cases with 14 percent, followed by Baltimore City with 13.4 percent and Baltimore County with 13 percent. Prince George's and Anne Arundel Counties accounted for 12 percent and 8.4 percent of the motor vehicle caseload, respectively. Statewide, there were 208 motor vehicle cases filed per 1,000 population, with Garrett County recording the highest number of cases per 1,000 population (640 filings) and Carroll County recording the lowest with 116 filings per 1,000 population.

The number of citations issued under Transportation Article Sec. 21-902 (driving while intoxicated and related offenses) significantly increased for the second consecutive year. Statewide, 65,627 citations were issued, compared to 55,994 in the previous year, a 17.2 percent increase. A similar increase of 16.7 percent, from 82,121 in Fiscal Year 2002, to 95,851 in Fiscal Year 2003, was realized in other citations that carry a possible jail term. Sec. 21-902 cases accounted for 5.5 percent of all motor vehicle case filings, while the other citations with possible jail time accounted for 8 percent.

Given the present enforcement policies and the long-term trend, which depicts a future increase in motor vehicle cases, it is anticipated that an increase similar to that experienced over the last two years will continue to be realized in the coming years.

Civil Cases

Civil filings (not including landlord-tenant) have steadily risen over the last ten years. The Court experienced increases of 5.5 percent over the past 10 years, 10.6 percent over the past five years, and 7.6 percent over the past two years. A total of 354,698 civil cases was filed in Fiscal Year 2003, representing 64 filings per 1,000 population statewide. Wicomico County reported the highest number of filings per 1,000 population with 114, while Carroll County reported the lowest number of filings per 1,000 population with 21 filings.

The five largest jurisdictions accounted for 73.5 percent of the civil complaints, with the greatest percentage recorded by Baltimore City (19.6 percent), followed by Prince George's County with 17.9 percent. Baltimore and Montgomery Counties accounted for 17 percent and 11.4 percent, respectively, while approximately 7.5 percent of the civil caseload was reported by Anne Arundel County.

The civil case type includes domestic violence and peace order cases. Statewide, in Fiscal Year 2003, the aforementioned cases accounted for 9.8 percent of the civil caseload (excluding landlord-tenant cases). There was a significant rise in domestic violence and peace order filings over the last four years (48.5 percent). Similarly, an increase of 16 percent, or 4,677 case filings, was realized over the last two years.

Given the current trend, the District Court anticipates a moderate growth in civil cases, while domestic violence and peace order filings are expected to increase more significantly. The latter is partly due to the expanded accessibility to the Court.

Landlord-Tenant Cases

Over the last two years, the number of landlord-tenant cases increased 6 percent. There were 528,583 landlord-tenant cases filed during Fiscal Year 2003, representing 96 filings per 1,000 population. That increase is in contrast to the five and ten-year trends. Over the last five years, the Court recorded a 7.2 percent decrease in landlord-tenant filings. Likewise, a 7.4 percent decrease was recorded over the last ten years.

The five largest jurisdictions accounted for 87.9 percent of the landlord-tenant cases filed state-wide during Fiscal Year 2003. Baltimore City reported the greatest percentage of cases with 29.4 percent of the landlord-tenant caseload, followed by Baltimore County with 23.5 percent and Prince George's County with 22.7 percent. Montgomery and Anne Arundel Counties reported 7.2 percent and 5.2 percent, respectively.

The District Court projects that the number of landlord-tenant filings will remain over the half million mark for Fiscal Year 2004.

*Excludes Landlord-Tenant cases.

Note: Starting in FY 2002, previously excluded civil case types were included in counts: civil citations, municipal infractions, forfeitures of contraband, injunctions and writs of possession. Also beginning with the FY 2002 report, terminations were reported. In order to compare terminations (judgments) with filings, the number of potential judgments ("complaints filed") is included. There is a "potential judgment" for each defendant in a case, and additional potential judgments when cross- and other claims are filed.

JUDICIAL ADMINISTRATION

Under Article IV, §18(b) of the Maryland Constitution, the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals is the “administrative head of the judicial system of the State.”

More than forty years ago, the Maryland Legislature took an additional step to provide the administrative and professional staff necessary to assist the Chief Judge to carry out the administrative responsibilities under the Constitution by enacting §13-101 of the Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article. This statute established the Administrative Office of the Courts under the direction of the State Court Administrator, who is appointed and serves at the pleasure of the Chief Judge. The State Court Administrator and the Administrative Office of the Courts provide the Chief Judge with advice, information, facilities, and staff to assist in the performance of the Chief Judge’s administrative responsibilities. The administrative responsibilities include, but are not limited to, human resource administration, preparation and administration of the Judiciary Budget, planning and research, and administration of the family divisions of Maryland’s courts. Staff support is provided to the various policy-making bodies within the Judiciary, as well as the conferences that support the Judiciary. Additionally, the Administrative Office of the Courts serves as secretariat to the Appellate and Trial Court Judicial Nominating Commissions. Staff also is responsible for the complex operation of case management systems, collection and analysis of statistics, and other management information. The office also assists the Chief Judge in the assignment of active and former judges to address shortages of judicial personnel in critical locations.

Following are some of the initiatives undertaken within various departments of the Administrative Office of the Courts during the last year.

The Department of Family Administration

Approximately five years ago, the Court of Appeals adopted Maryland Rule 16-204, which established family divisions in the State’s five largest jurisdictions and family services programs in the remaining nineteen jurisdictions. Since that time, the Department of Family Administration has shepherded the development and implementation of numerous programs, projects, and services that have revolutionized the way courts in Maryland handle domestic and juvenile cases.

Following are some of the Department’s highlights from Fiscal Year 2003:

- Hosted four Regional Conferences on Child Sexual Abuse and Family Court for judges, masters and court professionals. Provided through a grant to the Maryland Coalition Against Sexual Assault.
- Hosted 2-day training on Working with High Conflict Families for Maryland custody and mental health evaluators. Taught by nationally-recognized expert, Dr. Janet Johnston.
- Initiated a Family Court-ADR Best Practices Group to develop best practices for court-operated family mediation and alternative dispute resolution programs.
- Completed a Pro Se Best Practices document which identifies best practices for the management of court-operated Pro Se Assistance Projects. Pending approval of the Committee on Family Law.
- Hosted quarterly meetings for coordinators and family division administrators with regular in-service trainings.
- Hosted the annual 2-day CINA Conference.
- Sponsored Judicial Institute CINA Course which was held in April.
- Promoted permanency planning best practices through the TPR Work Group. Made funds available for on-site paternity testing at several courts. Several permanency planning liaisons were hired to assist those circuits in improving the handling of CINA, TPR and adoption cases.

- Evaluated the FCCIP Guidelines for Attorneys Appointed to Represent Children in CINA and TPR Proceedings by disseminating and compiling the results of a survey.
- Conducted two series of regional trainings for juvenile clerks on IT and uniform terminology.
- Made improvements in the management, compilation and reporting of CINA case information data.
- Published quarterly newsletter, Family Matters.
- Institute a revised procedure for the administration of Family Division / Family Services Program grants. Published notices of funding availability and met with prospective applicants to improve the quality and competitiveness of applications received, and to improve the manner in which grants were awarded.
- Provided technical assistance to courts, the legal community and the public on a wide range of family law and court management topics.
- Disseminated substantive law updates through Family Matters and in-service trainings.
- Initiated program of site visits to courts and Special Project grantees.

- Completed indirect cost study to improve ability to make the most of the Judiciary's IV-D contract with the Child Support Enforcement Administration.
- Assisted CASA programs and jurisdictions in identifying and obtaining outside sources of funding to enhance or expand existing programs.

The Drug Treatment Court Commission

The Drug Treatment Court Commission was established by Order of the Court of Appeals in 2002. The Commission is comprised of representatives from Maryland's three branches of government – Judiciary, Legislature, and Executive, as well as state and defense lawyers, and the research, academic and faith based communities. The primary goal of the commission is to institute a system of drug treatment courts statewide to assist non-violent drug abusing offenders lead crime and drug-free lifestyles. The Commission meets quarterly and has developed subcommittees to assist in the execution of its purpose: Operations, Treatment, MIS/Evaluation, Training, and Funding.

During Fiscal Year 2003, the Commission's accomplishments included:

Training

- Developed a training protocol to assist interested jurisdictions in implementing drug court programs.

- Eight jurisdictions including the Administrative Office of the Courts, were awarded training opportunities regarding the fundamentals of planning and implementation of drug treatment courts from the Bureau of Justice Assistance in collaboration with the National Drug Court Institute and the National Council for Juvenile and Family Court Judges.
- Planned and coordinated a two-day training for drug courts.

Funding Resources

- Notified planning and active programs about new and ongoing funding resources.
- Intricate role in applying for over a dozen grants for planning and active drug court programs.
- Assisted each jurisdiction in the grant process.

Providing Resources

- Developed interactive website for drug court practitioners.
- Developing operations manual incorporating best practices and standards.
- Utilized various telecommunications forms to distribute a range of information regarding drug courts including trainings, funding, and general substance abuse information.

Statewide management information system (MIS)

Judicial Administration

- Instituted HATS as Maryland's drug court statewide management information system.
- Supported initial and ongoing trainings on HATS.

Evaluation

- Funded and supported a Cost Analysis of Anne Arundel County and Baltimore City of their adult drug court programs.
- Instituted repository for baseline drug court data for all active programs.
- Through the University of Maryland's Bureau of Governmental Research, provided planning drug courts with statistical descriptive materials to guide the development of their drug court in teams.

Drug Treatment Court Movement

- Advocated for drug courts by participating in informative discussions and presentations for the general assembly, public meetings, organized trainings, court presentations, and media resources.

Currently, the Drug Treatment Court Commission is recognized as the lead agency in the State's effort to operate and maintain drug court programs for the State of Maryland.

Since 1994, nine active drug courts have been developed in Maryland; four of which are juvenile programs. This past year, fifteen other courts have been identified and are planning to implement drug treatment programs in these jurisdictions.

While drug court programs are asked to address the complex social issues of crime associated with substance abuse, the Commission continues to support the advancement of these programs throughout the State of Maryland.

Human Resources Department

The Human Resources Department (HR) has accomplished many of its published goals and objectives for Fiscal Year 2003. With full integration of human resources staff, new processes and programs have been implemented. In February 2003, the HR Policy Committee developed four new integrated policies for contractual employment, progressive discipline, sick and bereavement leave. Additional policies will be introduced in Fiscal Year 2004 to cover ADA, Fair Practices, Educational Assistance, Workplace Violence, etc. A "Doing Business with HR" (on-the-road) program to educate field staff on HR processing and requirements was implemented during the past year. Topics include: Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), Employee Relations (EER), Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Recruitment, etc. Thus far, in both District and Circuit Courts, this program has been provided to the Eastern Shore, Southern Maryland and Western Maryland counties. One-on-one refresher training has been offered to HR field staff and for new field staff, more in-depth sessions have been provided.

The development of a work/life balance program was realized in Fiscal Year 2003. Several initiatives, such as a health fair, evening yoga classes, discounted health club memberships, weight-watchers meetings and information and therapeutic massages, have been implemented. Judiciary staff regularly enjoy periodic wellness information and quizzes to help maintain a healthy work/life balance.

The Human Resources Department served as the pilot in setting up a new and improved Internet and the first Judiciary Intranet site this year. Both sites offer a plethora of HR related information, in addition to providing links to federal and state agencies, etc.

The FISH! Program was introduced in 2001 by the Human Resources training staff. In 2002, FISH! was customized for District Court staff as a part of its E-Service training. The FISH! program is a training program that emphasizes the importance of appropriate fun in the workplace. By using the FISH! philosophy of choosing your attitude, making people's day, being fully present and play, the workplace has improved. The program has yielded benefits of increased morale and internal and external customer satisfaction, lower absenteeism, and lower stress levels.

Several other initiatives were realized in Fiscal Year 2003. For instance, an ADA Initiatives group was formulated; plans have been developed for an AOC Diversity initiatives group; District and Circuit Court and administrative offices visits have continued and over 30 sites have been visited; on-line processing for payroll was implemented in conjunction with the Comptroller's Office requirements; HR staff attended a security/fraud alert training session rendered by a representative from the Federal Trade Commission as a preempt to the development of a security plan for the HR Department; and work is underway to develop an operational procedures manual for each HR unit.

Judicial Information Systems

The Judicial Information Systems Department is responsible for the administration and operation of the Judicial Data Center and the automated data systems and support infrastructure within the Maryland Judiciary. Additionally, Judicial Information Systems provide critical information to various governmental agencies to assist in their operations, including the Department of Public Safety and Motor Vehicle Administration. Over the past year, the Judicial Information Systems Department was engaged in a number of vital projects. They include:

Managed LAN - Local Area Networks Upgrade

Project Description

Reduce Total Cost of Ownership (TCO), increase service quality, and deliver zero administration desktop maintenance. Implemented software distribution, software tracking, and remote control processes. Approximately 2,600 workstations updated to Judiciary standard configuration to date.

Network Re-Engineering

Project Description

Provide more efficient network architecture capable of supporting increased web applications development and support.

Develop standardized communications network, policies and related services to support existing and future applications. The existing network modernization effort will be multi-phased to minimize impact to general network responsiveness.

Intranet Development

Project Description

Deployment of CourtNet, the Maryland Judiciary Intranet, providing a single point of entry to information and applications for Judiciary users. The intranet has been deployed to AOC headquarters, District Court headquarters, and is currently in the process of rolling out to the Circuit Courts and District Court users. Developed HR web site, developed prototype for web-enabled phone directory application, integrated Web email access via intranet, published Intranet Guidelines and Standards document by Judiciary I-Net committee.

Maryland e-License

Project Description

Provide the capability for businesses and individuals to apply for and receive business licenses more easily and efficiently. DLLR and the Circuit Courts have collaborated on the development and rollout. The Prototype has been successfully deployed in all jurisdictions, and license-processing improvements have been demonstrated.

Circuit Courts Accounting (Accounts Receivable, Fines and Fees Management)

Project Description

Implement new accounts receivable module addition to Circuit Courts case management systems and interface with DPSCS for collection information on fines and fees. Accounts Receivable module was readied for Carroll County UCS installation. Fines & Fees requirements between DPSCS and Judiciary were defined.

Land Records

Project Description

Land record imaging (ELROI) pilot rollout completed and implementation in progress (operational in 13 counties; projected to be completed within the next year). Development of interface to CAIS system completed. CAIS system provides land record indexing to Circuit Courts for public access.

IT Project Management and Processes

Project Description

Instituted a Project Management Office (PMO), charged with developing standards, processes, and guidelines for successfully managing projects. The PMO also coordinates the efforts of project managers assigned to each of the JIS initiatives with just-in-time training and ongoing project support. The PMO also facilitates the development of management processes technology architecture standards.

CaseFlow Time Standards

Project Description

Implemented a system that automated the data collection and reporting for the 2002/03 Caseflow Assessment, evaluating caseflow for ten major case types, including: Circuit Court Criminal Cases, Civil Cases, Domestic Relations Cases, Juvenile Delinquency Cases, and District Court Criminal Cases, 21-902 Cases, Traffic Must Appear Cases, Traffic Payable Cases, Civil Large Claims Cases, and Civil Small Claims.

COURT-RELATED AGENCIES

Attorney Grievance Commission of Maryland

The Attorney Grievance Commission of Maryland was created July 1, 1975, by rules promulgated by the Court of Appeals of Maryland. The current rules modified the original rules and were effective July 1, 2001. The rules are found in Chapter 700 of the Maryland Rules beginning with Rule 16-701.

Since the new rules were adopted, disciplinary complaints have been processed in a shorter time than in the past.

The Commission is composed of nine attorneys and three public members. Each member is appointed by the Court of Appeals for a term of three years. The Commissioners practice in or reside in several different counties. The Court designates one attorney member as Chair and one attorney member as Vice-Chair. David D. Downes, Esq., Baltimore County, is the Chair. Linda H. Lamone, Esq., Anne Arundel County, is Vice-Chair. Commissioners serve without compensation. Their powers and duties are set forth in Maryland Rule 16-711.

Subject to approval of the Court of Appeals, the Commission employs a Bar Counsel. The Commission employs an Executive Secretary.

Bar Counsel and staff investigate allegations of misconduct by a Maryland attorney, a member of the bar of another state engaged in the practice of law in Maryland, and non-attorneys whose activities may constitute the unauthorized practice of law.

The duties of Bar Counsel are set forth in Rule 16-712. Bar Counsel serves at the pleasure of the Commission and is responsible for employment of his staff. The duties of the Executive Secretary are set forth in Rule 16-711(e).

The Commission meets at least once each month with Bar Counsel to review the activities of Bar Counsel and staff to review statistical case information to determine whether staff is performing as provided by the rules. The Commission also reviews the income and expenditures of Bar Counsel to see that the budget, approved by the Court of Appeals, is honored. The Commission recommends to the Court of Appeals any necessary rule or administrative guidelines which affect the disciplinary system.

The Commission meets, at least once a month, with the Executive Secretary. These meetings require Commission review of all recommendations of Bar Counsel and staff, recommended warnings and reprimands, recommended conditional diversion agreements, recommendations of peer review panels and recommendations to file a petition for disciplinary or remedial action (Maryland Rule 16-711(h)(9)).

Rule 16-714 provides for a disciplinary fund. A condition precedent to the practice of law in Maryland is an annual payment each attorney is required to make to the fund. The Court of Appeals, by Order, establishes the sum required by this rule which is collected along with the sum required by Rule 16-811 to be paid to the Client Protection Fund. For Fiscal Year 2003, the assessment for the disciplinary fund was $65.00 and that of the Client Protection Fund, $20.00. Late fees are assessed for attorneys who fail to pay timely. An attorney who fails to pay the mandatory assessments within the time set forth by the Trustees of the Client Protection Fund may be decertified by the Court of Appeals and are not eligible to practice until the assessments and all late fees are paid.

The budget for the Commission is submitted for approval by the Court of Appeals prior to the beginning of the Commission's fiscal year. The budget is public and is reflected in the Commission's detailed annual report. The Commission's financial records are audited by an outside certified public accountant. That report is filed with the Court of Appeals. A surety bond is maintained for Bar Counsel, the Office Manager and a Commissioner designated as Treasurer.

The Commission's annual report is released in the Fall of each year and is distributed to courts, libraries, news media, disciplinary agencies in each state, every volunteer in the disciplinary system and to any others upon request. That report expands on the activities of Bar Counsel and staff and provides statistical information about the types of ethical violations investigated and reports all public sanctions of attorneys.

The Commission has the added duties of receiving overdraft notifications of an attorney's trust account, reports of targeted mailings by attorneys who engage in that practice required by Section 10-605.2 of the Business Occupations and Professions Article of the Maryland Code; and, when necessary, undertaking the role of a Conservator of the client files and bank accounts of any attorney who has been disbarred, suspended, is incapacitated, disappears or passes away and there is no one else to serve in that role. Two Conservatorships were undertaken this fiscal year. Several others have not been completed from prior years.

The annual report of the Commission will reflect receipt of the largest number of overdraft notifications of attorneys escrow account. Most were satisfactorily closed upon explanation by the attorney or his/her financial institution. Several were transferred to docketed files for further investigation and any necessary discipline.

The Commission has a web page linked to that of the Maryland Judiciary. This page enables a grievant to download a complaint form rather than awaiting one mailed by the Commission. All public disciplined attorneys are posted on the web site and there is a link to the Maryland Rules of Professional Conduct.

The Commission issues brochures in English and Spanish explaining the Commission and its purpose. The brochures are distributed to all courts in the State, as well as to public libraries.

The Commission staff, in addition to Bar Counsel, is composed of a Deputy Bar Counsel, seven Assistant Bar Counsel, six investigators, an Office Manager, an Administrative Assistant, two paralegals, eight secretaries and a receptionist.

The Disciplinary Process

Every grievance is reviewed to determine if further investigation is required. There were 2,034 grievances filed this fiscal year. One thousand five hundred fifty nine(1,559) or 77%, were concluded without further investigation, generally based on the response from an attorney or a determination that the grievance was not within the jurisdiction of the Commission. A total of 475 (23 %) were assigned for further investigation. This represents an increase over the number of investigations in the past two fiscal years.

Pending grievances assigned for investigation and not resolved at the close of Fiscal Year 2003 totaled 418, an increase over the previous fiscal year's level of 377 pending grievances. Unless the time for investigation of a grievance is extended for good cause, Bar Counsel is required to complete an investigation within 90 days after opening a file on the complaint. A failure to comply with the time requirements permits the Commission to take any action appropriate, including dismissal of the complaint and termination of any investigation.

When a "warning" is recommended by Bar Counsel or a peer review panel, the attorney must agree to accept it. A failure to accept a warning permits the Commission to direct Bar Counsel to take further action.

When Bar Counsel and an attorney agree to a public reprimand or a conditional diversion agreement, the Commission may approve either disposition in the form submitted, request that changes be made, or reject and direct Bar Counsel to take other action.

Bar Counsel also may file a statement of charges against an attorney to be heard by a peer review panel. These panels are composed of at least two attorneys and one public member. The panels meet informally; a reporter is not present. The panel may recommend to the Commission that a grievance be dismissed, that the attorney be warned, or that public charges be filed against the attorney. The panel also may report that, as a result of its meeting, the respondent attorney and Bar Counsel have agreed to a public reprimand or a conditional diversion agreement. The Commission may either accept the recommendation of a peer review panel or reject it and decide what other disposition is appropriate. It is the Commission that has the final decision to direct Bar Counsel to file public charges against an attorney.

The Peer Review Committee is composed of public members solicited by the Commission from various sources and attorneys who volunteer and must be a member of the bar of Maryland who has actively and lawfully engaged in the practice of law in Maryland for five years. Judges of courts of record and attorneys who in the past have been disbarred, suspended or the subject of a pending statement of charges or a public petition for disciplinary or remedial action may not serve.

State Board of Law Examiners

The examining of candidates for admission to the Maryland Bar was a function of trial courts of the State of Maryland until the State Board of Law Examiners was created by Chapter 139, Laws of 1898. The Board presently is composed of seven practicing attorneys appointed by the Court of Appeals of Maryland. The mission of the Board and its administrative staff is to assist the Court of Appeals of Maryland in determining whether candidates for admission to the Maryland Bar possess the requisite qualifications to become competent practitioners of law.

Admission to the Bar of Maryland, every person who seeks a license to practice law in the state courts of Maryland must demonstrate that he or she possesses the legal competence and character and fitness necessary for admission to the Maryland Bar. Legal competence is demonstrated by presenting the requisite educational credentials and passing the Maryland Bar Examination. A candidate demonstrates the requisite character and fitness by submitting to an investigation of his or her background conducted by the Character Committees and the State Board of Law Examiners. The Court of Appeals of Maryland reserves to itself the authority to decide whether to admit a Bar applicant after receiving recommendations from the State Board of Law Examiners and the Character Committees.

Recent law school graduates and attorneys, who do not possess the qualifications to take the Out-of-State Attorneys' Bar examination, must take the General Bar examination, which is offered at the end of February and July each year. The General Bar examination presently consists of an essay test of five hours writing time which is usually offered on Tuesday, and the Multistate Bar Examination (MBE), a 200 item, six hour multiple choice test offered on the last Wednesday of February and July. The essay test is developed and graded by the State Board of Law Examiners. The MBE is a national test prepared and scored under the authority of the National Conference of Bar Examiners.

The subject matter of the essay test presently includes agency, business associations, commercial transactions, constitutional law, contracts, criminal law and procedure, evidence, family law, Maryland civil procedure, professional conduct, property, and torts. The MBE subjects include constitutional law, contracts, criminal law and procedure, evidence, real property, and torts.

The results of general bar examinations given during Fiscal Year 2003 were as follows. A total of 1,488 applicants sat for the July 2002 examination; 1,011 (68%) passed. A total of 575 applicants sat for the February 2003 examination; 277 (52%) passed. Passing percentages for the two preceding fiscal years were as follows: July 2000, 69%; and February 2001, 55%; July 2001, 70%; and February 2002, 44%.

Experienced attorneys who meet the eligibility standards of Bar Admission Rule 13 may take a special, three hour essay examination limited in scope to the Maryland Rules of practice and procedure in civil and criminal matters and the Maryland Rules of Professional Conduct. The examination subject matter includes the Maryland Rules of Evidence, as well as rules and statutes governing certain non-litigation transactions and proceedings. The attorney examination, which is developed by the State Board of Law Examiners, is offered in February and July on the same day as the essay test for the General Bar examination.

A total of 82 applicants took the July 2002 Out-of-State Attorneys examination, and 76 (93%) passed. In February 2003, 87 applicants took the Attorney examination, and 65 (75%) passed.

Bar Admission Rule 11, effective August 1, 1990, requires all persons recommended for bar admission to complete a course on legal professionalism during the period after the announcement of the examination results and prior to bar admission. This course is administered by the Maryland State Bar Association, Inc., and was implemented beginning with the February 1992 examination.

The Court of Appeals amended Bar Admission Rule 12 by Order dated November 1, 2001, to require that a candidate who passes the Maryland bar examination take the oath of admission not later than 24 months after the date that the Court of Appeals ratifies the Board's report for that examination. A candidate who fails to take the oath within the required time period shall reapply for admission and retake the bar examination.

Client Protection Fund

The Clients' Security Trust Fund was established by an act of the Maryland Legislature in 1965. The statute empowers the Court of Appeals to provide, by rule, for the operation of the Fund and to require from each lawyer an annual assessment as a condition precedent to the practice of law in the State of Maryland.

Effective July 1, 2002, the name of the Fund was changed from the Clients' Security Trust Fund of the Bar of Maryland to the Client Protection Fund of the Bar of Maryland. It is felt that this name much better reflects the mission of this organization.

Over the past year many major changes have occurred. The Treasurer of the Fund for the past thirty-seven years, Isaac Hecht, passed away, and Richard Reid, the Chairman of the Fund resigned. Carolyn Woodside, one of the trustees also resigned after being appointed Master of Domestic Relations in Charles County. The Court of Appeals appointed two new trustees, Patrick A. Roberson from Baltimore City and Cecelia Ann Keller from Charles County.

During the past year, the trustees met on four occasions. They decided ninety-six claims. Of these claims, the trustees agreed to reimburse fifty-four claimants. The trustees paid out a total of $676,234 in claims this fiscal year. Almost one half of this amount was directly related to one attorney's thefts.

As of June 30, 2003 there were over 31,000 lawyers subject to annual assessment.

Maryland State Law Library

The Maryland State Law Library, as a court-related unit of the Judicial Branch, primarily is responsible for providing access to recorded legal knowledge and information for the Judiciary and citizens of Maryland, whose lives and livelihood are increasingly impacted by the rule of law. The Library's mission acts as a catalyst and guide in keeping all programming activities focused on meeting the information needs of a very diverse customer base.

The mission of the Maryland State Law Library, as a support unit of the state court system, is to provide access for the law related information needs of the judiciary as well as the legal community, government agencies and the public. The library pursues a full range of traditional and technologically enhanced service strategies that provide timely, accurate and efficient access to the sources of law, including federal, state and local government information resources.

Originally established by the Legislature in 1827 and reorganized under the Judiciary in 1978, the Library currently is staffed by twelve full time and three part-time employees. A State Law Library Committee, chaired by the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, provides general policy-making guidance.

With a collection in a variety of formats totaling well over 400,000 volumes and access to various commercial legal and general reference databases, the Library provides remote and on-site information seekers the option to harvest three distinct and comprehensive libraries. Anglo-American law, Federal and Maryland government information and local history and genealogy make up the backbone of the Library's print, microform and online information resources.

A sampling of Programs and projects initiated and continued during Fiscal Year 2003 included:

Activities of the Technical Services Department

*continued the development of a customized online catalog of historical and current Maryland county and municipal government codes on the library's web site (<http://www.lawlib.state.md.us>).

*continued the cataloging and development of a customized classification system for a large collection of superseded Md. state agency regulations pre-dating COMAR (prior to 1974).

*continued the addition of citations to Md. legal newspaper and journal articles on the library's online catalog MOLLIE.

Activities of the Public Services Department & Library Management

*continued a series of in-service training sessions for reference staff addressing use of new electronic resources on CD ROM and the Internet.

*became part of the MLAN, "People's Law Library" stakeholders group, providing active feed back and input on the redesign of that award-winning web site for low and moderate income Marylanders with legal issues.

*continued programs developed to enhance appellate court law clerk use of the library's unique collections and expertise in legal citation form and legislative history research.

*extended selective dissemination of library and judicial ethics information via monthly print and email notification to court officials.

*initiated a long anticipated Library Outreach Services full time position, designed among other things, to extend formal professional library assistance/consulting service to the State's public county law libraries.

*three staff members conducted research and contributed content on Maryland for a chapter to be published in a book on a 50-state pre-statehood annotated legal bibliography.

*added to the library's web-based legal pathfinder series seven Resource Guides on Traffic law in Maryland.

*initiated active participation and membership in a state-wide public and academic library effort to provide live, 24/7 computer reference assistance to Marylanders called AskUsNow!

*continued management of a judiciary state-wide computer assisted legal research contract.

*continued support for the statewide LASI Citation Service extended to residents of all State correctional facilities - provided over 3,000 pages of photocopied legal resources requested by LASI.

*staff continued to be active in their profession with three employees serving in leadership roles in various professional associations.

*the library's web site continues to be under a comprehensive restructure, redesign and expansion.

Finally, library staff continued to be very active in promoting the library and its services by participating in numerous educational programs throughout the year. Among some of these presentations were:

*Law Day civics workshop concentrating on the Maryland Judiciary for elementary school teachers and students (Md. Center for Civic Education).

*library staff organized a program open to all customers on a new online service called Westlaw Patron Access. Carried out in conjunction with National Library Week and the National Legal Research Teach-In.

*library staff coordinated the fifth annual Maryland County Law Library Conference, held in Leonardtown and hosted by the St. Mary's County Public Law Library.

*the highlight of the year was the library's celebration of its 175th anniversary. A day long program / open house was held at the library on December 11, 2002, and a lecture series was established to commemorate this occasion.

*library research staff prepared supplementary reading lists for fourteen Judicial Institute programs being presented in Fiscal Year 2004.

The Commission on Judicial Disabilities

The Maryland Commission on Judicial Disabilities was established by Constitutional Amendment in 1966 in response to a growing need for an independent body to assist in monitoring the conduct of judges. A 1970 Constitutional Amendment strengthened the Commission. Its powers were further clarified in a 1974 Constitutional Amendment. In 1995, the General Assembly passed a proposed Constitutional Amendment that significantly altered the membership of the Commission. That Constitutional Amendment, among other things, added four additional lay members to the Commission. It was approved by Maryland voters in November, 1996. By an Order dated June 5, 1996, effective January 1, 1997, the Court of Appeals renumbered the rules applicable to the Commission to Maryland Rules 16-803 through 16-810. On June 6, 2000, the Court of Appeals amended the rules pertaining to the Commission with the changes to be effective for all complaints, proceedings, and actions filed or commenced after January, 2001. For actions pending on January 1, 2001, the Court ordered that the amended rules apply "insofar as practicable."

The Commission now consists of three judges, one from the Court of Special Appeals, one from the Circuit Court, and one from the District Court; three members of the bar with at least seven years experience and five lay persons. All Commission members are appointed by the Governor, and they hail from different areas of Maryland. Membership is limited to two, four-year terms.

The Commission on Judicial Disabilities serves the public and the Judiciary in various ways. Its primary function is to receive, investigate, and act on complaints against members of Maryland's Judiciary. The Commission's jurisdiction extends to all judges who are members of the Maryland Court of Appeals, Court of Special Appeals, Circuit Courts, District Court, and Orphans' Court. Pursuant to Maryland Rule 16-810, the Commission also supplies the judicial nominating commissions with confidential information concerning actions taken, other than dismissals or pending charges, against those judges seeking nomination or appointment to other judicial offices.

The diversity of Commission membership in terms of experience, county of residence, gender, race, and age has been a distinct benefit in analyzing and handling complaints in an evenhanded and thorough manner. Commission members attend regular monthly meetings and actively participate in deliberations regarding each complaint, bringing to the discussion a wide range of professional experience and common sense.

The Commission members and staff continue to participate in judicial training and informational programs for judges, lawyers, and the public.

Numerous individuals write or call the Commission expressing dissatisfaction with a judge or with the outcome of a case or some judicial ruling. While some of these complaints may not come technically within the Commission's jurisdiction, the complainants are afforded an opportunity to express their feelings and frequently are informed, for the first time, of their right to appeal. Thus, the Commission, in an informal fashion, offers an ancillary, but vital, service to members of the public.

Complaints filed with the Commission must be in writing and under affidavit, but no particular form is required. Pursuant to Maryland Rule 16-803(h), a complaint must be under affidavit and allege facts "indicating that a judge has a disability or has committed sanctionable conduct."

Each complaint is acknowledged by letter from Investigative Counsel explaining the investigation and processing of the complaint. (Maryland Rule 16-805(b)). Investigative Counsel may open a file and initiate an inquiry independently "upon receiving information from any source indicating that a judge has a disability or may have committed sanctionable conduct. (Maryland Rule 16-805(d)). Complaints opened by inquiry are investigated in the same manner as formal complaints.

Complaints filed without affidavits are labeled "LA." On receipt of such a complaint, Investigative Counsel notifies the complainant, in writing, about the necessity of filing an affidavit and supplies the complainant(s) with the proper language for the affidavit. If the affidavit is not received within 30 days of the date of notice, the Commission administratively closes the file. (Maryland Rule 16-805(a)).

Having received a complaint against a member of the Judiciary, Investigative Counsel must determine whether the complaint alleges facts that, if true, would constitute a disability or sanctionable conduct. (Maryland Rule 16-805(c)). If Investigative Counsel concludes that the case does not have such facial merit, the complaint is dismissed and the Investigative Counsel notifies the complainant and the Commission members of the dismissal. Otherwise, the Investigative Counsel has 90 days from the receipt of the complaint to complete a preliminary investigation. (Maryland Rule 16-805 (e)(5)). The Commission may extend the time period for a preliminary investigation for good cause for an additional 30 day period. (Maryland Rule 16-805(e)(5)). Once the Investigative Counsel proceeds with an investigation, the judge is entitled to notice of the complaint, the name of the complainant, the substance of the complaint and his or her rights under the rules. (Maryland Rule 16-805(e)(3)).

Information contained in complaints and gathered during the preliminary investigation is confidential. (Maryland Rule 16-810(a)(2)).

Upon completion of the preliminary investigation, Investigative Counsel reports the results to the Commission and must recommend that one of four actions be taken:

(1) Dismissal of the Complaint with or without a warning. (Maryland Rule 16-807(a)).

Dismissal with a warning may be issued if the Commission determines that any sanctionable conduct that may have been committed by the judge will be sufficiently addressed by such a warning. A judge must, however, consent to the warning, and if the judge does not consent, the Commission has the choice to dismiss without a warning or proceed with public charges against the judge. (Maryland Rule 16-807 (a)(2)). A dismissal is issued if the evidence fails to show that the judge has a disability or has committed sanctionable conduct. Either form of dismissal, with or without a warning, does not constitute discipline. (Committee Note to Maryland Rule 16-807(a)(2)). Both the judge and the complainant are notified of the dismissal.

(2) Offering the judge a private reprimand (Maryland Rule 16-807(b)) or a deferred discipline agreement (Maryland Rule 16-807(c)).

Private reprimands are issued if the Commission finds that the sanctionable conduct was not so serious, offensive or repeated to warrant formal proceedings and only if the judge agrees to accept the reprimand, and agrees (i) to waive the right to a hearing before the Commission and subsequent proceedings before the Court of Appeals, and the right to challenge the findings that serve as the basis for the private reprimand, and (ii) that the reprimand may be admitted in any subsequent disciplinary proceedings against the judge to the extent it is relevant.

For sanctionable conduct not so serious, offensive or repeated to warrant formal proceedings, the judge may agree to enter into a deferred disciplinary agreement with the Commission. A deferred discipline agreement is appropriate when Commission members conclude the judge should take specific and remedial action including undergoing specific treatments, apologizing to the complainant, participating in educational programs, or working with a mentor judge. This agreement must include the items mentioned as (i) and (ii) in the preceding paragraph with respect to a private reprimand. Investigative Counsel then monitors the judge's compliance with the terms of the agreement. A judge's failure to comply with the terms of the agreement after written notice by Investigative Counsel may result in the Commission's revocation of the agreement and proceeding with other dispositions allowed by the rules. If Investigative Counsel notifies the Commission that the judge has satisfied the conditions of the agreement, however, the Commission shall terminate the proceedings.

The complainant(s) is/are notified of the issuance of the private reprimand or the deferred discipline agreement. Its contents are disclosed however, only if the judge gives written consent.

(3) Proceeding with further investigation (Maryland Rule 16-806).

Further investigation must be approved by the Commission. On approval, the Investigative Counsel must notify the judge in writing at his or her address of record and afford the judge the opportunity to file a written response to the complaint. The Commission may, for good cause, authorize the Investigative Counsel to issue a subpoena to compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of documents. "To the extent practicable, a subpoena shall not divulge the name of the judge under investigation.” (Maryland Rule 16-806 (b)(3)) Court files with any motion concerning the subpoena are sealed.

Further investigation must be completed within 60 days of its authorization by the Commission, but the time period can be extended for good cause. All proceedings under this rule are confidential. (Maryland Rule 16-810 (a)(2)).

At the completion of the investigation, Investigative Counsel reports the results of the investigation to the Commission along with a recommendation that the complaint be dismissed, that an offer of private reprimand or deferred discipline agreement be issued, or that formal charges be filed against the judge.

(4) Issuing Charges.

If the Commission decides to bring formal charges against a judge, the charges may be served upon the judge “by any means calculated to give actual notice. (Maryland Rule 16-808((b)). On receipt of the return of service, the Commission shall notify any complainant of the pendency of the charges. Within 30 days after the service, the judge can file a written response. Thereafter, the Commission notifies the judge of the time and place of hearing. The Complainant is also notified, and a notice is placed in the Maryland Register. The hearing is public.

Based on the information gleaned at the hearing, the Commission may, by a majority vote of the full Commission, dismiss the complaint, or based on clear and convincing evidence, issue a public reprimand or recommend that a judge be suspended, retired, removed or censored.

The Commission then makes a recommendation of its chosen course of action to the Court of Appeals. The Court of Appeals may adopt the Commission’s recommendation, dismiss the case or order a different (either more or less severe) discipline of the judge than the Commission recommended.

At times, retirements while investigations were ongoing, may result in the underlying complaint being dismissed.

Before complaints are formally initiated or where press coverage of some judicial actions prompt, many individuals telephone the Commission to register complaints. In Fiscal Year 2003, the Commission received numerous telephone calls. Callers are offered an opportunity to explain their grievances and are also informed about how to file a formal complaint.. Callers are routinely sent a follow-up letter detailing the language and procedures necessary to file a formal complaint along with an explanation of the applicable confidentiality provisions of Maryland Rule 16-810.

During Fiscal Year 2003, the Commission considered 138 written complaints. The total number of complaints in Fiscal Year 2003 represented a decrease of four from the total complaints in the prior fiscal year. Of the 138 complaints, 30 lacked affidavits, were outside of the Commission’s jurisdiction, or did not meet the requirements of the Rules. Six complaints were filed by practicing attorneys, 35 by inmates, and six were initiated by Investigative Counsel on his own initiative pursuant to Maryland Rule 16-805(d). The remaining 91 were filed by members of the general public. Some complaints were directed simultaneously against more than one judge, and sometimes a single jurist was the subject of multiple complaints.

Complaints against Circuit Court judges totaled 87, 35 complaints were made against District Court judges, six complaints were filed against Court of Special Appeals judges, and eight complaints were filed against Court of Appeals judges. There were no complaints filed against any Orphans’ Court Judges.

Litigation over family law matters (divorce, alimony custody, visitation) prompted 28 complaints, criminal cases (including traffic violations) prompted 54 complaints, and 41 arose from other civil litigation. Fifteen complaints failed to fit in any of those categories.

Twenty-five cases remained open at the end of the fiscal year, pending further investigation or receipt of additional information.

The vast majority of complaints in Fiscal Year 2003 were dismissed because the allegations set forth in the complaints were either found to be unsubstantiated, or the conduct complained about did not constitute sanctionable conduct.

Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office

The Maryland Mediation and Conflict Resolution Office (MACRO) is a small court-related agency created and chaired by the Honorable Robert M. Bell, Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland. MACRO serves as an alternative dispute resolution (ADR) resource for the state and provides information to the public about non-litigious, non-violent conflict resolution methods. MACRO collaborates with stakeholders to help establish, expand, evaluate, and support conflict resolution services in courts, communities, schools, state and local government agencies, criminal and juvenile justice programs, family service programs, and the business community. Originally established by Chief Judge Bell in 1998 as the Maryland Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) Commission, MACRO now serves as a resource for groups and individuals interested in a wide array of conflict resolution processes and programs. Chief Judge Bell chairs MACRO's multi-disciplinary Advisory Board, and champions advancing peaceful conflict resolution in society, as well as in the courts. Contributing to the development of a society where children and adults routinely resolve their own disputes, amicably and creatively, is of great benefit to the courts and to the people they serve.

MACRO's work has had a great impact on the use of mediation and other forms of conflict resolution in Maryland. ADR programs have increased exponentially across the State.

MACRO promotes quality assurance and accountability for ADR programs throughout Maryland. MACRO's vision is to have high quality ADR services and education that increase the public's access to justice, make the courts more efficient and user-friendly, empower more people to control the outcomes of their own disputes, and promote a more peaceful and civil society. In working toward these outcomes, MACRO is guided by a detailed action plan called Join the Resolution, which was adopted by the ADR Commission after an extensive, statewide, consensus-building process.

MACRO provides guidance, technical assistance and support to help develop and expand conflict resolution programs throughout Maryland. MACRO's Fiscal Year 2003 activities leveraged more than $500,000 from other sources, as well as countless volunteer hours for conflict resolution programs around the State. In addition, MACRO is completing three statewide collaborative projects that are working to develop (1) a mediator excellence program, (2) an evaluation system for all court ADR programs, and (3) an evaluation system for all community mediation centers.

In the five years since Chief Judge Bell created the ADR Commission, ADR programs have grown substantially in Maryland. Some of that growth has occurred without the direct assistance of MACRO, and in much of it, MACRO has played the role of a catalyst -- offering brainstorming assistance, information, resources and support -- to create, strengthen and expand a wide array of conflict resolution programs and initiatives statewide.

To help the public keep up with the growth of mediation programs statewide, MACRO, in cooperation with the Maryland Legal Services Corporation, has released a new "Consumers' Guide to Mediation Services in Maryland." The Guide lists the specific mediation programs operating in each jurisdiction, both within and outside of the courts. MACRO also operates an e-mail listserv to keep the ADR practitioner community abreast of its work, as well as to announce job opportunities, training opportunities, conferences, and other events that help to advance the dispute resolution field in Maryland.

Highlights of MACRO's Fiscal Year 2003 accomplishments in each major area of its work are as follows:

Circuit Court

MACRO provides assistance for ADR projects in circuit courts throughout Maryland. This support enables circuit courts to create new dispute resolution programs and to expand or enhance existing programs. MACRO provides start-up support for circuit court projects for up to three years, and recipients must report on efforts to make their programs self-sufficient and/or identify local support to maintain their programs for the long term. In Fiscal Year 2003, MACRO supported programs in the Circuit Courts for Allegany County, Baltimore City, Baltimore County and Howard County. In addition, it helped to create a new mediation program at the Legal Aid Bureau in Baltimore. In previous years, MACRO has supported ADR projects in the Circuit Courts for Anne Arundel, Charles, Frederick, Howard, Montgomery, Somerset and Worcester Counties, and most of these programs became self-sufficient in Fiscal Year 2003. MACRO also supported Fiscal Year 2003 programs to train attorneys and advocates about how to represent clients effectively using ADR and an ongoing mediation training scholarship program for retired judges.

In Fiscal Year 2003, the fastest growing mediation programs in the circuit courts were dependency mediation programs, which are operating in five circuit court jurisdictions with growing interest in many other parts of the State. Two kinds of dependency cases are being mediated in these programs. Child in Need of Assistance (CINA) cases are initiated when there has been an allegation of child abuse or neglect. Appropriate cases are being referred to mediation to bring groups together that may include parents, social workers, educators, health care practitioners, and extended family members or other supporters of the family to work with a mediator to develop a plan to support the safety of the child and the well-being of the family, with an eye toward reunification with parents when possible. Appropriate Termination of Parental Rights (TPR) cases also are being referred for mediation among birth parents, adoptive parents, and service providers, all of whom work with a mediator to determine the future relationship, if any, birth parents have with the child. MACRO works closely with the Administrative Office of the Court's Department of Family Administration to help educate courts and others about dependency mediation programs. MACRO is taking part in a collaborative effort being led by the Department of Family Administration, to develop best practices for court-related family ADR programs.

District Court

In Fiscal Year 2003, MACRO helped support the work of the District Court ADR Office that creates and operates mediation and settlement conference facilitation programs in District Court jurisdictions across Maryland. All ADR services in the District Court are offered free of charge to litigants, and services are provided by volunteers from local bar associations, community-based mediation programs, and other community organizations across the state. Services include day of trial mediation, pre-trial mediation referrals, peace order mediation, and settlement conference facilitation. In addition, the District Court ADR Office created a pretrial mediation program for more complex "special set" cases. This program was initiated in Montgomery County in partnership with the Conflict Resolution Center of Montgomery County and designated members of the bar. A similar partnership was established in Baltimore County with the Office of Administrative Hearings (OAH) and the Baltimore County Bar Association.

Also in Fiscal Year 2003, the District Court ADR Office created and distributed to courts statewide an educational video to orient litigants to ADR processes. The office also provides information to the public and promotes the use of mediation in civil and criminal disputes. Quality assurance and continued education are ongoing priorities in the District Court, helping to ensure that volunteer ADR practitioners are highly skilled, ethical, and conscientious.

Community Mediation

MACRO supports a non-profit 501(c)3 organization called the Maryland Association for Community Mediation (MACMC), which assists existing community mediation centers and helps create new centers throughout the State. In collaboration with MACMC, MACRO operates an innovative performance-based funding model that rewards centers for increasing their outreach efforts, intake services, and number of mediations. In addition, MACRO provides start-up support to new centers that operate in conformance with a community mediation model adopted by the ADR Commission. Since MACRO began supporting community mediation, the number of community mediation centers has increased from nine to fifteen statewide, and service levels at all of the centers have increased dramatically, with statewide performance measures doubling within the past year alone.

Community mediation is an important resource for the court, providing vital conflict resolution services at the neighborhood level, preventing violence and addressing the underlying causes of conflict in a manner that cannot be achieved in a courtroom. Community mediation programs provide free services to the District Court, do outreach and conflict resolution education in the community, and also accept referrals from police, prosecutors, schools, social service agencies and others, including self-referrals. They build effective working relationships with local government and community service organizations, and are on the front lines making a difference everyday in our neighborhoods. With support from MACRO, all fifteen centers are collaborating on an important research project designed to measure the impact and quality of community mediation services in Maryland. Lead by MACMC's Director of Research and Training, this research will have results that are expected to be of great benefit to community mediation and the wider ADR community.

Schools and Universities

MACRO supports the development and expansion of effective, peer mediation and conflict resolution projects in schools and universities. Having supported individual conflict resolution projects at well over two dozen schools across Maryland, MACRO took a major step in Fiscal Year 2003 by forming a partnership with the Maryland State Department of Education and the University of Maryland School of Law Center for Dispute Resolution to launch a special program to support small and innovative school-based conflict resolution programs. In its first year, this program supported ten innovative school-based initiatives and served as a critical first step toward creating a renewed emphasis on peace making in Maryland schools.

In higher education, highlights of MACRO's work in Fiscal Year 2003 included supporting startup of a peer mediation program at Salisbury University, as well as assistance in Salisbury's efforts to develop a post-graduate program in dispute resolution and a speakers series on peacemaking in the community. MACRO also supported a field service program at the University of Maryland School of Social Work, a conference on ADR in health care disputes with the University of Maryland School of Law, a regional mediator training initiative with Allegany Community College and Chesapeake College, and a research and training effort on family mediation with the University of Baltimore.

Criminal and Juvenile Justice

Mediation and other conflict resolution processes in the areas of criminal and juvenile justice help address underlying conflicts and prevent disputes from escalating or recurring. In Fiscal Year 2003, MACRO supported new mediation programs at State's Attorneys' Offices in Harford, Howard, and Prince George's Counties. These programs are diverting many citizens' complaints about neighbor-to-neighbor misdemeanors into mediation.

In addition, MACRO supported the ongoing work of a statewide community conferencing center to resolve juvenile justice matters, creation of a new community conferencing service in Montgomery County, and enhanced conflict resolution training, community conferencing and mediation services in partnership with the Baltimore City School Police. Community conferencing is a successful community-based diversion for juvenile misdemeanor crimes that strengthens existing community assets by involving everyone affected by an incident in deciding how best to repair the harm and prevent future occurrences, while helping juveniles and their families access community-based services. Other unique and innovative MACRO-sponsored criminal and juvenile justice projects include (a) an innovative conflict management skills training program for inmates at Baltimore City Correctional Center conducted by the Institute for Behavioral Health and Spirituality, (b) a new Council of Elders dispute resolution program operated in Montgomery County by the African Immigrants and Refugees Foundation, (c) a peer mediation program at the Prince George's County Detention Center, and (d) a victim-offender mediation program in Howard County.

State and Local Government

In the realm of government dispute resolution projects, MACRO works in close collaboration with the Attorney General's Office. MACRO has supported numerous collaborative problem solving processes, while also helping government agencies to train staff in effective conflict management and to identify possible uses of mediation. As an arm of the Judiciary, MACRO does not advise executive agencies about when to use ADR. Instead, MACRO seeks to assist agencies in efforts they identify as appropriate for ADR use, while also providing resources and technical support needed to help them explore possibilities in this field. MACRO has sponsored 40-hour mediation training programs at the Office of Administrative Hearings for Administrative Law Judges and staff, as well as for Assistant Attorneys General and Executive Branch agency personnel. In addition, MACRO has supported training at the Attorney General's Office in advanced negotiation and in effectively representing government clients in mediation.

Highlights of MACRO's Fiscal Year 2003 work with government agencies included (a) providing facilitation services to resolve a multi-party land use dispute in St. Michael's, (b) creating an Eastern Shore mental health collaborative to address service delivery conflicts arising with dual diagnosis patients, (c) launching a program to resolve conflict among farmers and migrant workers on the Eastern Shore, (d) developing a facilitated, collaborative process for siting a crisis center in Howard County, and (e) using mediation to resolve a complicated family case involving DSS and several other agencies. In addition, MACRO supported training for Department of Natural Resources employees and anticipates continued work on that agency's tributary strategies initiative in Fiscal Year 2004. MACRO also is participating in a national evaluation project with four other state offices of dispute resolution to assess the effects of its work in this area.

Evaluation, Quality Assurance and Public Education

A major part of MACRO's mission is to raise the profile of mediation and conflict resolution opportunities statewide, while promoting high quality services that are tailored to the diverse needs of service recipients across the State. Highlights of MACRO's work in this area include:

- * leading two statewide collaborative processes on evaluation, one to develop a uniform evaluation system for court-based programs and one to measure the statewide effects of community mediation programs
- * coordinating a statewide project to build consensus on a mediator excellence program
- * developing posters, brochures, videos, and other informational materials about the benefits of mediation in various contexts
- * promoting an ADR pledge campaign for businesses and law firms, and offering speakers bureau presentations on the business benefits of using ADR
- * conducting bench marking research to assess the Maryland business community's use of, and perspectives on, ADR processes.

A National Leader

With Chief Judge Bell's vision and leadership, MACRO has helped move Maryland from being a state lagging behind with regard to ADR, to being a national leader in the field of conflict resolution, as well as a model for other states and even a few foreign governments just starting ADR programs. MACRO's work has been featured prominently at numerous national ADR events and acknowledged with major awards from the Association for Conflict Resolution and the CPR Institute for Dispute Resolution.

Most recently, the American Bar Association's (ABA) Dispute Resolution Section acknowledged Maryland's progress by giving Chief Judge Bell its prestigious 2003 D'Alemberte/Raven Award for outstanding contributions to the field of conflict resolution. This award acknowledges Judge Bell's well-deserved place among the ranks of national leaders in the field, such as past recipients Roger Fisher, co-author of the dispute resolution classic Getting to Yes, and Janet Reno, former U. S. Attorney General who integrated ADR into the civil division of the U.S. Department of Justice. Judge Bell is the first state court judge ever to receive this award.

In his acceptance speech, Judge Bell summed up very well the benefits ADR provides the courts and the citizens of Maryland. He said that "in Maryland, we know that mediation is not a panacea. It is not always appropriate, and it does not always work. When it does work, however, it can go far beyond the simple goal of a fast compromise or settlement. It is a process that can help people in conflict develop the skills to sit down together, to deepen their understanding of the underlying issues, and to work on creative win/win solutions. In my view, such real human benefits far outweigh the benefits we are achieving in the area of docket control and speak much more directly to real justice for all."

Rules Committee

Under Article IV, Section 18 (a) of the Maryland Constitution, the Court of Appeals is empowered to regulate and revise the practice and procedure in, and the judicial administration of, the courts of this State; and under Annotated Code of Maryland, Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article, §13-301 the Court of Appeals may appoint "a standing committee of lawyers, judges, and other persons competent in judicial practice, procedure or administration" to assist the Court in the exercise of its rule-making power. The Standing Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure, often referred to simply as the Rules Committee, was originally appointed in 1946 to succeed an ad hoc Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure created in 1940. Its members meet regularly to consider proposed amendments and additions to the Maryland Rules of Practice and Procedure and submit recommendations for change to the Court of Appeals.

Minutes of the meetings of the Rules Committee from 1997 to the present and the text of the most recent rules changes proposed by the Committee and Rules Orders entered by the Court of Appeals are available through the Maryland Judiciary's website at www.courts.state.md.us/rules.

In addition to developing proposed new rules and amendments to existing rules, the Rules Committee and its staff maintain rules history archives; provide research assistance to judges, lawyers, and others who have rules history questions; and participate in educational programs involving the Maryland Rules of Practice and Procedure.

DEFINITIONS

Adoption/Guardianship

This includes all civil adoptions and guardianships including regular adoptions, guardianship with right to adoption, and guardianship with right to consent to long-term care short of adoption. Guardianship of incompetents are reported in "Other General".

Adult

A person who is 18 years old or older charged with an offense relating to juveniles to be heard in Juvenile Court (See § 3-831 of Courts and Judicial Proceedings Article.)

Appeal

The resorting to a higher court to review, rehear, or retry a decision of a tribunal below. This includes appeals to the circuit court, the Court of Special Appeals, and the Court of Appeals.

Appeals to the circuit courts include:

1. Record - The judge's review of a written or electronic recording of the proceedings in the District Court.
2. De Novo - The retrial of an entire case initially tried in the District Court.
3. Administrative Agency - appeals from decisions rendered by administrative agencies. For example:

- Department of Personnel
- County Commissioner
- Department of Taxation and

- Assessments
- Employment Security
- Funeral Director
- Liquor License Commissioners
- Physical Therapy
- State Comptroller (Sales Tax, etc.)
- State Motor Vehicle Authority
- Supervisors of Elections
- Workmen's Compensation Commission
- Zoning Appeals
- Any other administrative body from which an appeal is authorized.

Application for Leave to Appeal

Procedural method by which a petitioner seeks leave of the Court of Special Appeals to grant an appeal. When it is granted, the matter addressed is transferred to the direct appeal docket of the Court for customary briefing and argument. Maryland statutes and Rules of Procedure permit applications in matters dealing with post conviction, inmate grievances, appeals from final judgment following guilty plea, and denial of or grant of excessive bail in habeas corpus proceedings.

Case

A matter having a unique docket number; includes original and reopened (post judgment) matters.

Caseload

The total number of cases filed or pending with a court during a specific period of time. Cases may include all categories of matters (civil-general, civil-family, juvenile, and criminal).

C.I.N.A. (Child in Need of Assistance)

Refers to a child who needs the assistance of the court because:

1. The child is mentally handicapped or
2. Is not receiving ordinary and proper care and attention, and
3. The parents, guardian, or custodian are unable or unwilling to give proper care and attention.

C.I.N.S. (Child in Need of Supervision)

Refers to a child who requires guidance, treatment, or rehabilitation because of habitual truancy, ungovernableness, or behavior that would endanger himself or others. Also included in this category is the commission of an offense applicable only to children.

Condemnation

The process by which property of a private owner is taken for public use without the owner's consent but upon the award and payment of just compensation.

Contested Confessed Judgment

The act of a debtor in permitting judgment to be entered by a creditor immediately upon filing of a written statement by the creditor to the court.

Contracts

A case involving a dispute over oral or written agreements between two or more parties.

Breaches of verbal or written contracts.

Landlord/tenant appeals from District Court.

Delinquency

Commission of an act by a juvenile which would be a crime if committed by an adult.

Disposition

Entry of final judgment in a case.

District Court - Contested

Only applies to civil, a case that has gone to trial and both parties (plaintiff and defendant) appear.

District Court Criminal Case

Single defendant charged per single incident. It may include multiple charges arising from the same incident.

District Court Filing

The initiation of an action or case in the District Court.

Divorce, Nullity

A proceeding to dissolve a marriage. Original filings under this category include divorce a vinculo matrimonii, divorce a mensa et thoro, and annulment. A reopened case under this category includes hearings held after final decree or other termination in the original case. A reopened case may involve review of matters other than the divorce itself as long as the original case was a divorce. (Examples of the latter may be a contempt proceeding for nonpayment of support, noncompliance with custody agreement, modification of support, custody, etc.)

Docket

Formal record of court proceedings.

Filing

Formal commencement of a judicial proceeding by submitting the necessary papers pertaining to it. Original filing under one docket number and subsequent reopenings under the same number are counted as separate filings.

Fiscal Year

The period of time from July 1 of one year through June 30 of the next. For example: July 1, 2002 to June 30, 2003.

Hearings

Criminal - Any activity occurring in the courtroom, or in the judge's chambers on the record and/or in the presence of a clerk, is considered a hearing, except trials or any hearing that does not involve a defendant.

Examples of Hearings in Criminal

- Arraignment
- Discovery motion
- Guilty plea
- Motion to quash
- Motion to dismiss
- Motion for change of venue
- Motion to continue
- Motion to suppress
- Motion to sever
- Nolo contendere
- Not guilty with agreed statement of facts

- Sentence modifications
- Violation of probation

Civil - A presentation either before a judge or before a master empowered to make recommendations, on the record or in the presence of a clerk or court reporter, for purposes other than final determination of the facts of the case. Electronic recording equipment, for definition purposes, is the equivalent to the presence of a court reporter.

Examples of Hearings in Civil

- Motion to compel an answer to an interrogatory
- Motion ne recipiatur
- Motion for judgment by default
- Demurrer
- Motion for summary judgment
- Motion to vacate, open, or modify confession of judgment
- Preliminary motions presented in court, including motions for continuance
- Determination of alimony pendente lite, temporary custody, etc., in divorce case
- Contempt or modification hearings
